Montreal | Wednesday, February 25th, 2010 – Exeko is glad to present its first full-length film, The Memory Box. It was selected amongst 1,300 movies and is competing for the documentary Grand Prize along with the Public Prize, as part of the 5th Montreal Human Rights Film Festival.

The official DVD launch will take place before Sunday, March 21st's projection.

The Memory Box was exclusively shot in Ethiopia, and tells a story of tragedy and hope through the eyes of the peculiar, Chaplin-like character of Dawish the Clown. This documentary is a log book of two humanitarian missions during which Dawish, Nadia Duguay – the producer, Wayne Schoenfeld – photographer, and the Rotaplast International medical team introduce us to the Ethiopian people.

Both projections will be followed by a discussion with the producer of The Memory Box and cofounder of Exeko, Nadia Duguay, and David Fiset a.k.a. Dawish the Clown.

"A story of volunteers who have decided that they can make a difference. An inspiring and empowering message." Nadia Duguay
